X: Can you hear that? It sounds like a cat.

Y: You can see it over there in the tree. It looks like the neighbor's kitten has gotten loose again.

X: How do you think it will get down? She looks pretty stuck.

Y: I don't know, but may be we should call Mr. Jones to bring the ladder.

X: Okay! Then I'll go ask him.

(例2)

Y: Can you see that monkey in the tree?

X: With my bad eyesight I can't see that far, but I can certainly hear it. It sounds very angry about something.

Y: Yes, it does seem to be quite upset. Maybe it doesn't like our hats.

X: I hope it doesn't attack us. Perhaps we'd better move.

Y: Yes, I'll get the nurse to bring a wheelchair for you.

(例1) The most important thing I've learned at school is that you shouldn't be too competitive with others if you want to be happy. Everyone has their own weaknesses and strengths and you feel more fulfilled if you concentrate on discovering your own talents and pursue your own interests rather than just trying to be better than others. (57語)

(例2) The most important thing I learned outside school is to never give up. During a baseball game, we were losing by six runs in the seventh inning and no one expected to win. However, we all kept playing hard, scored seven runs, and won the game. If you give up when things look bad, you never discover your true abilities. (60語)
